THE DEER CLUB, D.O.M. HOTEL (ROME, ITALY)

Rome is all about history, elegance, and authenticity. If you ever find yourself at the D.O.M. hotel on via Giulia, make sure you pop into the charming, mysteriously lit Deer Club. Massimiliano "Max" Mariola, Executive Chef, has composed an international modern menu that marries traditional Italian regional cuisine. And, to compliment your kitchen bites, or main course the in house Mixologist will gladly prepare you an inspired innovative drink according to liking.

Every day, from the aperitif until after dinner, The Deer Club welcomes its guests as in the lounge of a private aristocratic dwelling. The atmosphere is in line with the general aesthetic trend of the hotel, characterized by silk velvet sofas, long dark curtains similar to theatre wings, the three precious "Ladies and Gentlemen" by Andy Warhol, the crystal chandeliers and Venetian-style big wall mirrors, encouraging non-verbal communication. An imposing stag's head and antlers, the emblem of the ancient Regola quarter in which the hotel is located, and symbol of The Deer Club dominates the scene hanging over the fireplace at the long end of the dining room.
